IMC to Provide Independent Testing for Critical TSA Secure Flight Program

Dulles, VA, 23 October 2019 – Innovative Management Concepts, Inc. \(IMC\), an information technology services and solutions provider, has been awarded a five-year task order (TO) from the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) to provide Operational Test and Evaluation (OTE) to Independently Validate and Verify (IV&V) Secure Flight software releases, processes and procedures, and information assurance before it goes into the Secure Flight production environments. The TO, was a competitively award under the General Services Administration's VETS2 Governmentwide Acquisition Contract (GWAC), the period of performance began on 5 September 5, 2019.

IMC provides the TSA OT&E IV&V services for activities surrounding planning, design, development, test and operations of the Secure Flight system. IMC provides the full range of independent test, validation, verification, and evaluation solutions to ensure that all IT systems products and services meet Department of Homeland Security policies and are performing to defined design, cost, schedule and performance specifications/capabilities. IMC provides industry and government best practices, technologies, tools, and support services to quality and operational assessments, integration testing, and system test and evaluation – including security certification and accreditation – for IT systems. IMC also provides independent verification and validation through the independent operational testing, monitoring, and evaluation of projects through activities such as, but not limited to, assessments, process and procedure audits, project and performance management, and systems analysis and design.

IMC is supported by our partner Dynamic Security Concepts, Inc. (DSCI), in this effort. DSCI has been providing similar IV&V services to TSA Secure Flight since 2015. We are committed to supporting the TSA's pursuit of its mission to protect the nation's transportation systems.
